INNLEDNING:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The course contains 4 lectures on use of library, how to write a bachelor thesis, plagiarism and ethics of writing, and selection of a topic for the thesis. These lectures are early in January, after that the students focus on their topics together with their supervisors individually. Students have the right to 40 hours of supervision by their supervisors (this time includes also reading of draft versions etc). The administration and the course responsible person have developed guidelines for supervision and evaluation of a bachelor thesis in Human nutrition at UiB, that was used first time in spring 2015.

SAMMENDRAG AV STUDENTENE SIN EMNEEVALUERING (hovedpunkt):
We did an oral, informal evaluation of the course with the students. Overall, students were satisfied with the course and said they learned a lot. Many liked the scientific way to work. Students had the feeling that the theses' and exams' assessments were often dependent on the sensor in charge and may have been biased.
EMNEANSVARLIG SIN EVALUERING:
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Although the guidelines for evaluation were used, many students complained that they had the feeling that theses and the exam were evaluated unequally. There is clearly further need to a more standardized evaluation. On the other hand, there was only one student who complained about his mark and will be re-evaluated. A more comprehensive guideline for the supervisors will be developed on choice of topic, qualifications of the students and time use.
MÅL FOR NESTE EVALUERINGSPERIODE - FORBEDRINGSTILTAK:
Formal evaluation by the students should be done after the next turn (spring 2016)
