

RELV210/RELV310 Selected Themes in Religious Studies. Assisted Reading with Term Paper Report, spring term 2019

Praktisk gjennomføring

The teaching consists of supervision (in person or via e-mail) of a term paper on a theme selected by the individual student. Prof. Knut Jacobsen and Prof. Håkan Rydving acted as supervisors this spring term.

Kommentar til studentevaluering

There was no evaluation of the course this term.

Studieinformasjon og dokumentasjon

Information about the course has been available at Mitt UiB and was given to the students when they met for supervision.

Tilgang til relevant litteratur

The students did not have any problems in getting the literature they needed, even if some of the books were not available at any library in Norway. The staff at the University Library was very helpful.

Faglærers vurdering av rammevilkårene

Everything worked well.

Lokaler og undervisningsutstyr

Not relevant.

Internasjonalisering

The course is international in many respects. Only exchange students have access to it, the themes they write about are international, and they write their papers in an international language. However, even if the choice is between English, French, German, Italian, and Spanish, most of the students write their paper in English (as the students this term did).

Faglærers samlede vurdering, inkl. forslag til forbedringstiltak

I have taught this course several times before, and the results are generally very good. The reason for the comparatively bad result this term is not known.
